It would be privilege to represent our community as a councillor in the Shire of Exmouth. I have called Exmouth home for the past 23 years, and I truly believe it's the best community and place to live. I feel incredibly lucky to be raising my family here, with three children whose ages range from lower primary to upper secondary school.

Throughout my time in Exmouth I've worked locally as a nurse, and been actively involved in our community - volunteering in various positions across sport, health and community at a local, state and federal level.

My commitment is simple: I care deeply about Exmouth - both the people and the place. I want to help shape a future that supports local families, respects our natural environment, and continues to build this amazing community.

I aim to be a councillor who earns the community trust - someone who listens to all viewpoints, stays informed, and advocates strongly for the future of Exmouth.
