Located within the Cape Range National Park, 63km from Exmouth, Turquoise Bay deserves special mention amongst the many stunning beaches of this coastline.

Situated closer to town, Bundegi Beach is 14 kilometres north of Exmouth. This is a fantastic beach for safe swimming, snorkelling, fishing and also features a boat launching facility.

Cape Range National Park

Shothole Canyon — A unique and stunning venue that has hosted open air opera. The rough gravel track meanders over dry creek beds along the gorge floor and offers visitors close examination of the colourful rock layers of the sheer canyon walls. Note: Shothole Canyon Road is suitable for four wheel drive vehicles only.

Charles Knife Gorge — This scenic drive south of town provides breathtaking downward views into the stark, multicoloured gorges. There are several lookout points that provide fantastic photo opportunities and a marked walking trail from Thomas Carter Lookout.

Yardie Creek — Another breathtaking location in the Cape Range National Park. Centuries of erosion have formed a spectacular multicoloured gorge that cuts deep into the limestone of the Cape Range. Yardie is the only gorge in the area with permanent water, however, this is salt water fed from the ocean. Go by boat and cruise up the creek for a close up of this interesting ecosystem or follow the walk trail and marvel over the view from the top.
